ex H A Parsons collection, Glendinings, 11 May 1954, lot 21

The style and workmanship of this coin falls into the "Lis Group" identified by Webb-Ware in his 1985 work on the die varieties of the series. The style differs from the regular coins of the Tower Mint and could be from another London workshop, or more likely a branch mint in York. Other examples of this style carry a lis on the reverse die, a mark associated with the York Mint in Henry's first reign (1422-1461). This is an example of the Angel without a lis mark and is struck from the same reverse die as Schneider 448.

ET. TVTAMEN. ANNO. REGNI. SECVNDO., 41.59g (Sch 523; MCE 197; S 3561). Some porosity to the obverse fields, dig on lower cheek and one on neck, the reverse lightly toned retaining brilliance with no porosity, the rim a little nicked in places, otherwise almost very fine, the reverse good very fine, extremely rare, the most desirable of all the currency 5-Guineas. £60,000-80,000

The highly desirable VIGO 5-Guineas was coined from gold captured by Admiral Sir George Rooke from a Franco-Spanish bullion fleet sheltering at Vigo Bay on 12 October 1702. A remarkable action. A Royal Warrant was issued to strike the captured bullion into coin and insert the word VIGO under the bust in permanent remembrance of the battle. Many different commemorative medals were struck as souvenirs. Under the personal supervision of the Master of the Mint, Sir Isaac Newton, just under 4,500lb of silver was transported in great pageantry to the Tower Mint to coin a great quantity of Crowns, Halfcrowns, Shillings and Sixpences. However a mere 7lb and 8oz of gold only, was captured and used to coin a short run of 5-Guineas, Guineas and ½-Guineas. For further reference on the battle of Vigo Bay and its consequences see "The Destruction of the Spanish Silver Fleet at Vigo in 1702" by H Kamen, Spink Numismatic Circular, June 1968.

- 3585 George II, Farthing, 1754, older laureate and cuirassed bust left, rev Britannia seated on globe with spear (Peck 892; S 3722). Toned, extremely fine with lustre on the reverse. £80-100

- 3586 George III (1760-1820), Half Guinea, 1804, seventh laureate head right, rev crowned garter surrounding quartered shield of arms, crowned escutcheon of the arms of Hanover (MCE 442; S 3737). Considerable brilliance, nearly extremely fine, the reverse better. £250-300

- 3587 George III, Later Electrotypes copy of the "Three Graces" Pattern Crown, 1817, manufactured of copper probably with a lead core, remains of a "silver wash" over the surfaces, made in the style and after William Wyon, laureate head right, date below, W.WYON. below truncation, GEORGIUS III D:G: BRITANNIARUM REX F:D:, beaded border and linear circle both sides, rev off-set inverted die axis, the Three Graces, personifying Ireland, England and Scotland, with national emblems, W.WYON to left of harp, FOEDUS INVIOLEABILE, palm branch and paddle in exergue, edge plain and curved in cross section, twin joints adjacent to each rim, 24.58g, probably of Victorian manufacture (cf ESC 225; L&S 154). A copper obverse and reverse appear to have been conjoined over a lead centre piece giving the skilful join adjacent to the obverse and reverse rims, three raised flaws by "REX" of legend as the obverse portion has not adhered correctly to the core, otherwise well handled, the original finish worn thin and copper very apparent, nicks and marks, very fine and very skilfully constructed with the three component pieces. £300-400

It is also interesting to note that this piece weighs within the tolerance of genuine silver examples we have on file at Baldwin's. If it were a true copper striking from the Mint we would expect the weight to be quite different, as is the gold example when compared to the silver.

- 3588 George III, Crown, 1818 LIX, laureate head right, date below, rev St George and dragon, edge inscribed (ESC 214; S 3787). A few light handling marks, mottled tone with plenty of mint brilliance, good extremely fine. £300-400

ex Rev Edgar Rogers OBE, collection sold to A H Baldwin & Sons Ltd, c.1960, with his ticket

From the evidence of Rogers' tickets with his coins, it would seem the Manville Robertson entry for Rogers in the Appendix of their tome on British Numismatic Auction Catalogues 1710-1984, had an unfortunate typo in the date of sale to Baldwin of this collection. It was clearly not sold in 1950 as stated but more likely 1960 which has confused researching numismatists since. The Rogers tickets suggest all the coins were acquired not only before 1950 but right through the decade of the fifties, having bought from many of the major London dealers and sales such as Foster 1953 and L A Lawrence 1950-51.
